1. Course Information

In today's world of increased mobility, globally aware students have more choices for employment upon graduation and are immediately ready to contribute in global environments. They are aware of global issues and cultural differences, and their global mindset allows them to recognize good ideas from wherever they might come and new market/product opportunities wherever they might exist. This course is the first step toward the development of a global mindset. It provides a meaningful global experience to first-year business students through an in-depth perspective of a specific country or region outside the United States and a short academic trip to the region.

2. Learning Goals

By the end of this course, students will be able to:

- a) Logically articulate concepts related to international business
- b) Critically analyze international business issues
- c) Understand unique management challenges for organizations that operate internationally
- d) View management issues from a multicultural perspective
- e) Identify potential international career paths
- f) Present themselves professionally in an international context
- g) Understand major contributors to the economy of Germany
- h) Recognize culturally appropriate business practices of Germany

This Germany section of BADM 1260 will be specifically focused on the following theme - From "Rubble to Rockstar": how culture, diverse approaches to education, and a new focus on leadership, sustainability, transportation and manufacturing have transformed Germany into a world powerhouse. Germany is a perfect place to study these facets of business due to things like the two world wars, the Holocaust, the Cold War, the focus on renewables, manufacturing, mass transit and the globalization and success of German businesses. Germany is well known for efficiency and sets an example for others to follow.

3. Required Course Materials

Textbook: There is no required textbook for the course. All required readings and videos will be posted on the course website.

iClicker Remote: The iClicker remote is available at the CU bookstore and (possibly cheaper) online. Details on the use of the iClicker are listed below. You are solely responsible for clickers that don't work, that break, that are left at home, that are stolen, or have depleted batteries. ALWAYS carry extra batteries. Put your name on your iClicker remote. Keep it with you at all times, and please tell me if you change clickers so I can update your remote in the clicker software.

4. Assignments and Grading

This course is evaluated on a percentage basis. The following items total to 100%.

Midterm Exam (30% of Grade)

The exam is comprehensive and will consist of a combination of multiple choice, true/false and (possibly) short answer questions, all on Canvas. It will be closed-book and closed-note. The exam date is listed on the course schedule. Any conflict with the exam date must be discussed with me by the end of the first week of class.

After the exam has been completed, your grade will be immediately visible to you on Canvas. You can review your answers by stopping by office hours.

You must talk to me at least a week in advance to get approval for a makeup exam, and a makeup exam will only be allowed for excused absences.

It is considered a violation of the Honor Code to copy or otherwise record any exam/quiz questions for the aid of others. Further, any and all outside assistance (e.g. via email, texting, etc.) during an exam/quiz is considered cheating.

Team Project (30% of Grade)

Each team will write a paper and give a presentation on a German company. Companies we will visit on our trip will be assigned to teams while other companies will be up to the teams to choose. The team will conduct an assessment of the company in the areas related to our theme and other areas and draw conclusions. Each team will also present their work to the class. Details will be posted on the course website.

Team Led Class Discussion (10% of Grade)

Each team will prepare a presentation and lead a class discussion around a topic related to the themes of the course and Germany. The intent is to increase the depth of understanding around an important topic. Details will be posted on the course website.

Homework, Participation and Clickers (10% of Grade)

Students are expected to actively participate in discussions based on reading and all other assignments. Verbal communication skills and the ability to present ideas and explain points of view will be critical to meeting this course requirement.

Part of your grade will be the use of iClickers in the classroom. We will use iClickers in this class to facilitate discussions, help you test your knowledge and prepare for the exam, and also to reward those who come to class prepared and ready to engage. Questions will be presented in multiple-choice format and you will answer using the iClicker remote. You will receive credit for responding (showing your attendance and attention), and for responding with the correct answer (showing your understanding).

You must attend class with your properly functioning iClicker remote to be eligible to receive all available clicker points. Each clicker question is worth 3 points. You will receive 3 points for the correct answer; 2 for an incorrect answer; and 0 for no response. If you are unable to attend class and have an excused absence, your score will be exempted for that day (i.e. no points will count for or against you). One loaner clicker will be available on a first-come, first-served basis should you forget yours. A properly functioning iClicker remote is solely your responsibility. See above for more information on Clickers.

In addition to in-class clicker questions, you will have the opportunity to earn additional credit by successfully completing a few short homework assignments, including a practice quiz and an EQ assessment.

The instructor will also evaluate each student based on participation in class discussions, in-class workshops & projects, and team break-out sessions.

Here are some thoughts to help guide your participation:

- Did you attend class, and on-time?
- Did you deliver assignments on-time?
- Are your points relevant to the discussion, or are they detracting from it?
- Does your point reflect preparation and careful consideration of the day's assignment?
- Are you stating a unique perspective, or simply rephrasing the comments of another participant?
- Are you clear in articulating your point?
- Does your style demonstrate empathy for other perspectives?

Absences or disruptive class behavior will automatically result in a full grade deduction. A rubric for class participation will be posted on Canvas.

A strong participation grade should be a "gimme". Poor grades on this dimension will be given to those who have unexcused absences, are late to class, aren't engaged in learning or rarely speak. If you have questions, or are very shy about participating in discussion, please see me and we'll find a solution.

Participation and Professionalism While Abroad (10% of Grade)

One of the most important parts of this class is to demonstrate professionalism while abroad and show an interest in the culture of another country. As such, you will be graded based on your level of participation and professionalism while abroad. Note: you will automatically lose 2/3 of this grade for falling asleep or using an electronic device during a business visit, or for missing or showing up late to a business visit. Further details, including a rubric, will be posted on our course site.

Daily Travel Journal/Reaction Blog (10% of Grade)

One invaluable part of our experience abroad is reflecting on everything you have experienced daily. This journal is your way to document your thoughts and experiences. You will write a minimum of 5 posts about your experience (1 pre-experience, at least 3 during/about the experience, perhaps daily, and 1 post experience). Details will be posted on Canvas.

Global Experience

Students in this course participate in a short trip outside the United States. The trip will be May 9 – May 16. The trip itinerary will be posted on Canvas once it is finalized. World Strides will be the travel provider for this trip so pay close attention to any e-mails from their office: Sonia Meyer or Delaney Downs in particular. You should also look for e-mails from Marie Pecoraro or Sarah Wedmark since they officially manage these FGX programs for Leeds.

Do you have a valid passport?! If so, great, but if not, please submit your passport paperwork the first week of class. There is an office at the C4C that can help with this or visit the Study Abroad office and they can direct you. In addition, DuoLingo is a great tool to learn German. Let's all sign-up and have some fun learning some common words and phrases!

Course Grades

All graded items and final course grades are considered final one week after being made available to students, unless otherwise stated. Please check Canvas for posted grades, grade calculations and to calculate anticipated grades.

Final course grades may be curved up, but never down. They will be assigned according to the grade scheme below, where rounding is at the instructor's discretion. In this class, final course grades will be rounded to the nearest whole number.

Grade	Percent Range	Grade	Percent Range
A	100 - 93	C	76 - 73
A-	92 - 90	C-	72 - 70
B+	89 - 87	D+	69 - 67
B	86 - 83	D	66 - 63
B-	82 - 80	D-	62 - 60
C+	79 - 77	F	59 - 0

Section Variations

Please follow the materials and guidelines in your registered section since they will differ from other sections. Variations may also occur with grades; however, faculty work together to ensure consistency and fairness in assigning grades across sections; and overall final course grade averages are generally consistent.

5. Excused Absences/Assignment Extensions

Once you are aware of a situation about which you would like to be considered for an excused absence or assignment extension, please immediately send an email to the instructor. Subject to applicable laws and University of Colorado regulations, any grant of special treatment is at the sole discretion of the instructor.

Situations that may justify special treatment:

- A medical or emergency situation for which the Office of the Dean of Students has provided written notice to the instructor
- School sanctioned travel with appropriate and timely documentation
- An absence due to a temporary medical condition or a documented disability
- Religious observations for which the student has notified the instructor well in advance of the scheduled conflict

Please check the course calendar and final exam schedule before making any travel arrangements; travel arrangements generally do not excuse missed exams or other missed assignments.

Late Add to the Class

If you add to the course late, you have one week to submit any missed deliverables. For missed course content, please refer to the “Three Before Me” rule. If you still have questions or need an extension, please email your instructor.

6. Professionalism/Class Etiquette Policy

As in the business world, you are expected to behave professionally during our class meetings, which means you should do the following:

- Make our classroom distraction-free from side conversations and devices. Keep devices (for example, cell phones and laptops) turned off and put away unless authorized for class activities (in this class they are not allowed); and talk in class only when it is your turn to do so.
- Disconnect from the outside world to be fully present and engaged inside the classroom
- Come to class prepared and on time, and stay for the duration
 - Refrain from packing up and leaving the room until class is over
 - Let the instructor know if you will be late or have to leave early
 - If you must arrive late, be discreet; never walk in front of the presenter
- Respect the perspectives of your classmates, guests, TAs, and instructor
- Explore and engage with all aspects of this course, even the unconventional ones
- Adhere to the guidelines set forth by the CU Honor Code
- Dress in appropriate business attire for class presentations unless otherwise stated
- Follow business email etiquette:
 - Open emails with “Dear Professor,” indicate your name, class and section, and end with a closing such as “Best regards,” or “Cordially.”
 - Carefully consider your subject heading and proofread for spelling, grammar and professional tone before you hit Send
 - For help, email leedswriting@colorado.edu for a writing coach’s perspective
- Refrain from food or beverage distractions.

Our class is the right place to practice professional behavior. Please be aware that repeated or severely unprofessional behavior may have consequences on your grade and standing in the course.

My Commitment to You

Your time is valuable; therefore, I will begin and end each class on time, and do my best to facilitate rich in-class discussions showing many sides to the issues we discuss. I will come to class organized, prepared, and ready to engage with you in the learning process. I will respond to your email inquiries promptly and will be happily available during my office hours and by appointment.

I want you to thrive in this course and will gladly work with you to help you achieve success. If you have course-specific questions about how best to set yourself up for success, please set up an appointment with me.

“Three Before Me”

I’m happy to answer your questions. However, for questions about due dates or logistics, please ask yourself whether the answer is available elsewhere. If so, before contacting me, please check 1) your class notes or your classmates 2) on Canvas or 3) on the syllabus.

Honor Code Violation Reporting

If you suspect a fellow student or students of violating the Honor Code, it is your duty as a Leeds student to report it. To do so, please contact the instructor directly, or use this link to report the behavior.

7. Additional Resources

Counseling and Psychiatric Services

CAPS offers confidential, on-campus mental health and psychiatric services for a variety of concerns such as academics, anxiety, body image, depression, relationships, substance use and more. 303-492-2277 (24/7 support). C4C Room N352

Office of Victim Assistance (OVA)

OVA provides free and confidential information, consultation, support, advocacy, and short-term counseling services to University of Colorado Boulder students, graduate students, faculty, and staff who have experienced a traumatic, disturbing, or life disruptive event. OVA is not a part of the police department or the Office of Institutional Equity and Compliance, and is confidential resource for students, staff and faculty. If you have questions about OVA services, please call 303-492-8855 or email assist@colorado.edu.

Don't Ignore It (reporting harassment, classroom disruptions, discrimination, etc.)

Don't ignore harassment, disruptive classroom behavior, discriminatory actions, unwanted sexual behavior, an abusive partner, and stalking. There are options for seeking confidential support, reporting concerns, and learning skills for helping as friends and bystanders. For more information, contact the Office of Institutional Equity and Compliance \(OIEC\)

Drop/Add/Withdraw

Students are responsible for distinguishing among and adhering to University deadlines for adding, dropping and withdrawing from courses. Information about these deadlines and procedures can be accessed via the following links: CU Academic Calendar, Register \(Add/Drop\) for Classes and Withdraw from the Semester.

8. Additional Information Required for Inclusion by CU Boulder

- a) Accommodation for Disabilities: If you qualify for accommodations because of a disability, please submit your accommodation letter from Disability Services to your faculty member in a timely manner so that your needs can be addressed. Disability Services determines accommodations based on documented disabilities in the academic environment. Information on requesting accommodations is located on the Disability Services website. Contact Disability Services at 303-492-8671 or dsinfo@colorado.edu for further assistance. If you have a temporary medical condition or injury, see Temporary Medical Conditions under the Students tab on the Disability Services website.
- b) Classroom Behavior: Students and faculty each have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. Those who fail to adhere to such behavioral standards may be subject to discipline. Professional courtesy and sensitivity are especially important with respect to individuals and topics dealing with race, color, national origin, sex, pregnancy, age, disability, creed, religion, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, veteran status, political affiliation or political philosophy. Class rosters are provided to the instructor with the student's legal name. I will gladly honor your request to address you by an alternate name or gender pronoun. Please advise me of this preference early in the semester so that I may make appropriate changes to my records. For more information, see the policies on classroom behavior and the Student Code of Conduct.
- c) Honor Code: All students enrolled in a University of Colorado Boulder course are responsible for knowing and adhering to the Honor Code. Violations of the policy may include: plagiarism, cheating, fabrication, lying, bribery, threat, unauthorized access to academic materials, clicker fraud, submitting the same or similar work in more than one course without permission from all course instructors involved, and aiding academic dishonesty. All incidents of academic misconduct will be reported to the Honor Code (honor@colorado.edu); 303-492-5550). Students who are found responsible for violating the academic integrity policy will be subject to nonacademic sanctions from the Honor Code as well as academic sanctions from the faculty member. Additional information regarding the Honor Code academic integrity policy can be found at the Honor Code Office website.
- d) Sexual Misconduct, Discrimination, Harassment and/or Related Retaliation: The University of Colorado Boulder (CU Boulder) is committed to fostering a positive and welcoming learning, working, and living environment. CU Boulder will not tolerate acts of sexual misconduct (including sexual assault, exploitation, harassment, dating or domestic violence, and stalking), discrimination, and harassment by members of our community. Individuals who believe they have been subject to misconduct or retaliatory actions for reporting a concern should contact the Office of Institutional Equity and Compliance (OIEC) at 303-492-2127 or cureport@colorado.edu. Information about the OIEC, university policies, anonymous reporting, and the campus resources can be found on the OIEC website. Please know that faculty and instructors have a responsibility to inform OIEC when made aware of incidents of sexual misconduct, discrimination, harassment and/or related retaliation, to ensure that individuals impacted receive information about options for reporting and support resources.

- e) Religious Holidays: Campus policy regarding religious observances requires that faculty make every effort to deal reasonably and fairly with all students who, because of religious obligations, have conflicts with scheduled exams, assignments or class attendance. Students for whom religious observances conflict with class schedules should contact the instructor no later than two weeks before the potential conflict to request special accommodations. See the campus policy regarding religious observances for full details.
